

Sustainability vision

The Deutsche Hypo is convinced of the necessity that the economic success of the company must go hand in hand with an intact natural environment and a society with stable social relations. Humanity today even more before, stands before joint challenges like climate change, the financial and economic crisis or the increasing scarcity of resources. As a commercial real estate finance provider and Pfandbrief bank we see a particular responsibility to address these developments according to our potential.

For us, acting sustainably means to make a contribution through our actions to leave future generations an ecologically intact and economically and socially stable world. Sustainable management means a responsible use of resources and energy, particularly with regard to sustainable construction of real estate. Furthermore, as buyers and sellers of products and services, we would like to take over responsibility as an employer and as part of society. Therefore, we have integrated responsibility and sustainability as core values in our mission statement and specified it in our sustainability strategy.
